

SERVICE JOBS SHANGHAI, CHINA SUMMER 2012

Serve, Educate, Learn, Experience

Mid-June — late July

Three Ways to Serve and Learn, all in one experience:

1. Teach English or another subject for two weeks in a classroom setting in Shanghai, China.
2. Serve as a camp counselor for Chinese kids of all backgrounds at the English summer camp in Shanghai, and at one or two off-site camps.
3. Optional one week travel in China at your expense.

A message from the Principal at Yew Wah:

"Students with any major can be encouraged to come, but there are two things that are indispensable from our perspective: a willingness to serve and an appetite for hard work. We also need students to be exemplary role models for our own students and also for the students we serve in the camps."

耀華國際教育機構

Yew Wah International Education Foundation

www.ywies-sh.com

The East Asian & International
Business Institute

Wittenberg's East Asian and International Business Institute partners with the Yew Wah International School of Shanghai to offer Wittenberg students from a variety of backgrounds a chance to experience, educate, and serve in China next summer.

Cost: $400

Defrays expenses for travel between the camps, your visa, and required insurance. This is a job, not study abroad — you get paid in room, board, and in amazing experiences with great kids.

Included in this cost:

- + Airfare costs are provided by Wittenberg's East Asian and International Business Institute.
- + Airport pickup, room & most meals provided by Yew Wah.

No
Knowledge of Chinese Needed

Who should consider this opportunity?

- Hard workers who are flexible and open to accept a new culture.
- Students with good English skills in speaking, writing, grammar.
- People who have talent in one or more of the following: sports, camp counseling, drama, and education.
- Other majors welcome! Guitar players most welcome!
- Last summer we had a great team: two Education majors, three English majors, one Political Science major, and one Chinese major. Only two had any Chinese language background beforehand.

First Information sessions to be held November 30, 4:00 pm, Hollenbeck 101
— or contact Tom Kaiser, tkaiser@wittenberg.edu